Abstracts

The global Huntington's Disease Treatment market size is expected to reach $ million by 2029, rising at a market growth of % CAGR during the forecast period (2023-2029).

Huntington's disease is an infrequent inherited neurodegenerative disease that affects various generations. The impact of this disease is high when the age is between 30 and 50, hampering their ability to work, care for families, and eventually complete daily tasks. The generality differs by more than ten-fold between geographical areas, which can be associated with differences in case ascertainment and diagnostic criteria. As a result, the generality of enlarged replications in the general population may be larger than expected. The Asian population has continuously had a lower generality, while Europe, North America, and Australia have a higher generality.
