Abstracts

The global In-Flight Meal Service market size is expected to reach $ 69506 million by 2032, rising at a market growth of 4.1% CAGR during the forecast period (2026-2032).

In-Flight Meal Service refers to food products specifically designed, prepared, packaged, and supplied for airline transportation services. These meals are produced by airline catering companies according to airline requirements, flight duration, cabin class, and passenger dietary preferences. Airline catering meals typically include main meals, breakfast, snacks, beverages, special meals (such as vegetarian, religious, low-sugar, and medical diets), as well as customized premium-class meals. They must meet strict requirements for food safety, nutritional balance, freshness preservation, logistics management, and aviation service standards. Airline catering meals are widely used in commercial aviation, business aviation, and charter flight services.

The In-Flight Meal Service industry is expected to develop toward premiumization, personalization, and sustainability. As passenger expectations for travel experiences continue to rise, airlines and catering providers are focusing on higher-quality menus, customized meal options, regional cuisine innovation, and healthier food solutions. Meanwhile, the adoption of automated food production systems, digital supply chain management, food traceability technologies, and sustainable packaging will improve operational efficiency and reduce costs. In addition, reducing food waste, increasing the use of sustainable ingredients, and providing personalized nutrition solutions will become key trends shaping the future development of airline catering meals.
