Abstracts

According to our (Global Info Research) latest study, the global Index Insurance market size was valued at US$ 3601 million in 2025 and is forecast to a readjusted size of US$ 5034 million by 2032 with a CAGR of 4.9% during review period.

Index Insurance is an innovative insurance product that provides compensation based on predefined objective index parameters rather than the actual losses suffered by the insured party. Under an Index Insurance contract, payouts are triggered when a specified index reaches a predetermined threshold, and the insurer pays a fixed or predetermined amount according to the policy terms. The underlying indexes may include weather indexes, rainfall indexes, temperature indexes, drought indexes, yield indexes, satellite-based vegetation indexes, and other economic or environmental indicators. Unlike traditional indemnity-based insurance, which requires individual loss assessment and claims verification, Index Insurance offers faster payouts, lower administrative costs, greater transparency, and improved scalability. It is widely used in agricultural insurance, climate risk management, disaster protection, and financial solutions for smallholder farmers in emerging markets. With the advancement of climate data analytics, satellite remote sensing, artificial intelligence, and digital technologies, Index Insurance is becoming an important tool for integrating insurance solutions with data-driven risk management and climate adaptation strategies.
