Abstracts

Industrial casting is a process in which liquid or molten metal is poured into a mold. These molds comprise a hollow cavity of the desired shape to form complex geometrical parts. A mold can be produced from materials such as ceramic and sand plaster. Metals and alloys such as iron, aluminum, magnesium, zinc, steel, and copper are primarily used for casting.

SCOPE OF THE REPORT:

This report focuses on the Industrial Castings in global market, especially in North America, Europe and Asia-Pacific, South America, Middle East and Africa. This report categorizes the market based on manufacturers, regions, type and application. The aluminum casting is widely used in industrial casting, henceforth, expected to expand during the forecast period due to increase in use of the automotive industry and a rise in new applications of industrial casting. Aluminum parts, metal of casting are widely used in vehicles in place of steel and iron components due to their light weight and ability to increase fuel efficiency.

The increasing popularity of X-ray casting defect recognition technique in metal casting industries will drive the growth prospects for the global industrial castings market during the forecast period. In this system, a technique such as the automatic or assisted defect recognition (ADR) in X-ray applications is used in the automotive casting production process. This system is programmed to make either an “Accept” or “Reject” decision for the produced parts, based upon the system settings.

The worldwide market for Industrial Castings is expected to grow at a CAGR of roughly xx% over the next five years, will reach xx million US$ in 2023, from xx million US$ in
