Abstracts

An evaporator converts a fluid mixture from its liquid state into a gaseous state by vaporizing the liquid into a gas, leaving behind all the solid components. These evaporators are used wherever the final food item needs to be converted to a concentrated state with a negligible amount of fluid or no fluid at all (as and when required). These help in the partial removal of water from any liquid food item via the boiling process.

Scope of the Report:

This report focuses on the Industrial Evaporators in global market, especially in North America, Europe and Asia-Pacific, South America, Middle East and Africa. This report categorizes the market based on manufacturers, regions, type and application.

Such equipment helps ships to reduce their dependence on external sources for fresh water. Diesel-powered ocean liners utilize excess heat to generate fresh water, where the water used to cool the engines is passed through a heat exchanger and is subsequently cooled using concentrated seawater to yield fresh water.

The temperature of the seawater and engine load fluctuations are major factors that can interfere with the production of clean water aboard a ship. However, this can be countered by the use of evaporators that require simple adjustments.

Wastewater evaporators can also utilize the waste heat from engine jacket water, engine exhausts, and other heat sources to produce fresh water; thereby, reducing operational costs.

The worldwide market for Industrial Evaporators is expected to grow at a CAGR of roughly xx% over the next five years, will reach xx million US$ in 2023, from xx million

US$ in 2017, according to a new GIR (Global Info Research) study.
