Abstracts

The global International Pet Shipping Services market size is expected to reach $ 3493 million by 2032, rising at a market growth of 8.3% CAGR during the forecast period (2026-2032).

International Pet Shipping Services refer to professional cross-border logistics solutions designed to safely, legally, and humanely transport pets (including companion animals such as dogs, cats, birds, and small mammals, as well as specialized animals like service dogs, breeding stock, or exotic pets) between countries or regions via multiple transportation modes?primarily air cargo, supplemented by land or sea transport for connecting routes. These services integrate end-to-end support, including pre-shipping consulting (on destination-specific entry requirements, quarantine regulations, breed restrictions, and vaccine mandates), compliance documentation processing (international health certificates, rabies antibody test reports, import/export permits, and microchip registration), customized transportation planning (selection of IATA-approved crates, climate-controlled cargo holds, or in-cabin options for eligible small pets), door-to-door or airport-to-airport logistics coordination, customs clearance assistance, in-transit care (feeding, hydration, stress reduction, and real-time condition monitoring), and post-arrival quarantine arrangement (where required).

International Pet Shipping Services industry is seeing trends of rapid market growth driven by pet humanization, integration of IoT and real-time tracking technologies, and expansion of premium customized services; key opportunities lie in the booming Asia-Pacific market, rising demand for high-end and cross-border pet transport, and policy support for simplified quarantine processes; however, it faces challenges including fragmented international regulatory standards, cumbersome compliance procedures, pet safety and welfare risks, and high operational costs.
