The global Lacquer Crafts market size is expected to reach $ million by 2029, rising at a market growth of % CAGR during the forecast period (2023-2029).

China is rich in raw lacquer resources. Chinese lacquer trees are mainly distributed in Shaanxi, Sichuan, Guizhou, Yunnan, Gansu and other places. The lacquer material is green and environmentally friendly. It is a natural green paint. The lacquer art techniques are rich and diverse, which provides a solid foundation for the development of lacquerware products. A solid foundation; the development of science and technology reduces the difficulty of product development and production, providing reliable technical support for the research and development of lacquerware brands, mechanized production and application of technology, leading fashion trends, people's pursuit of quality, desire for culture etc., which increase the possibility for the development and promotion of modern lacquerware. The application of science and technology and mechanized production can solve the problem of small batch production, greatly improve the production efficiency of lacquer products and reduce production costs. For example, 3D printing technology can be used to manufacture some parts or carcass, and mechanized processing can complete the rapid and accurate production of some components. Secondly, senior lacquer artists are invited to provide technical guidance, and some lacquer workers are hired for production. In the production process, we must pursue the spirit of craftsmanship, strive for excellence, create a high-end modern lacquerware brand, and establish a good modern lacquerware brand image.

Daily utensils, handicrafts, and artworks made by coating the surfaces of various utensils with lacquer are generally called 'lacquer ware'. The carcass is the basis of making lacquerware. According to the material of the carcass, lacquerware crafts can be divided into bodiless, wooden, pottery, and metal. With the development of science
