LDPE & LLDPE sealant web films are types of sealant web films or packaging that have high heat sealant strength LDPE & LLDPE plastics that require low heat energy requirements for sealing. They provide high moisture barrier to packed products and thus enhance their shelf life.

Growing demand for protective solutions in the packaging industry requiring superior seal strength is increasing the market value of LDPE and LLDPE sealing films. LDPE and LLDPE are mainly used to develop multi-layer packaging coil films for bag packaging due to their high heat-sealing strength, low melting temperature and good moisture resistance. High printability is another factor driving the demand for LDPE and LLDPE films. Shelf life, protection and quality of food are essential characteristics required of prepackaged products. Time constraints have brought fair opportunities for the expansion of LDPE and LLDPE sealing films market in the food segment where longer shelf life and ability to withstand variable temperatures are required.
