Abstracts

According to our (Global Info Research) latest study, the global Liveaboard Boat Insurance market size was valued at US$ 249 million in 2025 and is forecast to a readjusted size of US$ 381 million by 2032 with a CAGR of 6.2% during review period.

To address the high risks associated with navigation during liveaboard activities, the complex safety needs of tourists, and the difficulty in defining third-party liability, liveaboard insurance emerged. Since its inception in the late 20th century, the field of marine insurance and risk management has developed significantly. Currently, liveaboard insurance encompasses various types, including marine insurance, tourist accident insurance, third-party liability insurance, trip cancellation insurance, and diving equipment loss insurance. It is widely used on popular liveaboard routes worldwide, such as the Caribbean, Maldives, Red Sea, Southeast Asia, and Australia's Great Barrier Reef, providing liveaboard operators and tourists with comprehensive and customized risk protection solutions to ensure navigational safety and a superior travel experience.

As a 'safety net' for the marine economy, liveaboard insurance is undergoing a transformation from traditional property insurance to intelligent and eco-friendly insurance. In the future, breakthroughs need to be achieved through three dimensions: product innovation (such as carbon fiber sail insurance), service upgrades (remote claims processing), and ecological collaboration (a yacht industry chain insurance system). This will allow for capturing the incremental insurance demand in the trillion-dollar waterborne economy market, driven by trends such as rising biosafety standards and the widespread adoption of new energy vessels.
