Abstracts

The global Long-stay Travel Insurance market size is expected to reach $ million by 2029, rising at a market growth of % CAGR during the forecast period (2023-2029). There has been a growing trend of individuals and families embarking on long-term travel adventures, whether for work, study, or leisure. This has led to an increased demand for travel insurance policies that provide coverage for extended periods, ranging from a few months to a year or more. Given the longer duration of travel, there is an emphasis on comprehensive medical coverage in long-stay travel insurance policies. This includes coverage for emergency medical expenses, hospitalization, medical evacuation, and repatriation. Insurers are increasingly offering higher coverage limits and extended benefits for medical emergencies. Long-stay travelers often engage in adventurous activities and sports during their trips. Insurers are offering coverage for a wide range of adventure activities, such as scuba diving, hiking, skiing, and more. These specialized coverage options address the specific risks associated with these activities.

This report studies the global Long-stay Travel Insurance demand, key companies, and key regions.
