A low foaming cleaner is a specially formulated cleaning product characterized by the presence of specific surfactants that produce minimal foam during the cleaning process. It reduces the need for moisture and penetration on the surface being cleaned, thereby enhancing cleaning efficiency and minimizing potential damage to the surface. Designed to effectively remove grease, dust, and other soils while maintaining gentleness to the material's surface, this type of cleaner avoids the issues of residue and difficulty in rinsing that can be caused by excessive foam, making it suitable for fast and efficient cleaning in foam-sensitive situations.
