According to our (Global Info Research) latest study, the global Maritime Consultancy & Shipping Service market size was valued at US$ 19036 million in 2025 and is forecast to a readjusted size of US$ 26298 million by 2032 with a CAGR of 4.9% during review period.

Maritime Consultancy & Shipping Service refers to a range of professional services provided to ship owners, ship operators, port companies, governments, and investors across the maritime value chain. These services include shipping market research, fleet planning, technical consulting, commercial strategy consulting, ship management, risk management, compliance advisory, and operational support. Maritime consultancy and shipping services aim to improve operational efficiency, reduce business risks, and optimize decision-making for stakeholders involved in shipping, ports, offshore operations, and marine-related industries.

The upstream of the Maritime Consultancy & Shipping Service industry mainly includes shipbuilders, ship design institutes, maritime technology providers, shipping data providers, insurance companies, and financial institutions, which provide technical resources, market information, risk assessment, and capital support. The midstream consists of maritime consulting firms, shipping research organizations, ship management companies, and professional service providers that deliver market intelligence, technical consulting, operational management, and strategic advisory services. The downstream customers include ship owners, shipping companies, port operators, logistics companies, energy companies, offshore engineering companies, governments, and regulatory authorities, with demand driven by fleet optimization, shipping investment decisions, green shipping transformation, and global trade development.
