Medical silicone gel sheets are commonly used to treat hypertrophic and keloid scars, which are raised or thickened scars that can form after an injury or surgical procedure. The silicone gel sheet creates a moist environment that helps to hydrate the scar tissue and promote healing. The pressure exerted by the sheet also helps to flatten the scar and reduce its appearance. Medical silicone gel sheets are also used to treat other types of scars, including burns and surgical scars. Medical silicone gel sheets are easy to use and can be worn for extended periods of time.
