The global Molded Hook Tape market size is expected to reach $ million by 2029, rising at a market growth of % CAGR during the forecast period (2023-2029).

Molded hook tape, also known as molded hook fastener, is a type of fastening system commonly used in applications where strong and secure attachment is required. It consists of a strip of synthetic material, typically made of nylon or polyester, with molded hook-shaped projections on one side.

The molded hook tape is designed to be used in conjunction with loop tape, which has a surface covered in tiny loops that interlock with the hooks. When pressed together, the hooks and loops create a secure and reusable fastening closure.

Molded hook tape offers several advantages over traditional hook and loop fasteners. The molded hooks provide a stronger grip and are more resistant to wear and tear, making them suitable for high-stress applications. The tape is also designed to prevent snagging and lint buildup, allowing for smoother and more reliable fastening. Molded hook tape is used in a wide range of industries, including apparel, footwear, sports equipment, automotive, and medical, among others, for applications such as closures, straps, and fastening systems.

This report studies the global Molded Hook Tape production, demand, key manufacturers, and key regions.
