Abstracts

The global Mortgage Guarantor Service market size is expected to reach $ 1369 million by 2032, rising at a market growth of 5.7% CAGR during the forecast period (2026-2032).

To address the difficulties borrowers face in obtaining loans due to insufficient creditworthiness, lack of collateral, or insufficient collateral value, and to help financial institutions effectively manage credit risk, specialized mortgage guarantee services have emerged. Since the mid-to-late 20th century, with the deepening of modern financial systems and risk management needs, the field of credit intermediation and credit enhancement services has gradually achieved professionalization and market-oriented development. Currently, mortgage guarantee services have developed into a variety of models, including personal joint liability guarantees, professional guarantee institution guarantees, counter-guarantee measure design, risk pricing, and dynamic monitoring. These services are widely used in bank credit, SME financing, personal housing and consumer loans, project financing, and entrepreneurial support, and are a key financial intermediary service that significantly enhances borrower credit, diversifies financial system risk, and promotes the effective allocation of social capital.

Mortgage guarantee services are transforming from 'single collateral dependence' to 'data-driven + ecosystem collaboration,' becoming a key infrastructure connecting fund supply and demand and promoting credit circulation. In the future, it is necessary to strengthen technological empowerment, improve risk-sharing mechanisms, and build an open ecosystem to cope with economic cycle fluctuations and changes in the regulatory environment, achieving sustainable and healthy development.
