Abstracts

A mortise hinge is a type of hinge that is designed to be installed within a mortise, which is a rectangular cavity or slot cut into the edge of a door and the door jamb. This type of hinge is often used for interior doors, cabinets, and other applications where a flush, concealed hinge is desired. Mortise hinges typically consist of two parts: one part is attached to the edge of the door, and the other part is attached to the door jamb or frame. When the door is closed, the two parts of the hinge fit together within the mortise, creating a seamless appearance. One of the main advantages of mortise hinges is their ability to provide a clean, unobtrusive look since they are hidden when the door is closed. This makes them popular for high-end residential and commercial applications where aesthetics are important. Additionally, mortise hinges are known for their strength and durability.

According to our (Global Info Research) latest study, the global Mortise Hinge market size was valued at US$ million in 2023 and is forecast to a readjusted size of USD million by 2030 with a CAGR of %during review period.
