Abstracts

The global Motherwort Granules market size is expected to reach $ 178 million by 2032, rising at a market growth of 5.9% CAGR during the forecast period (2026-2032).

In 2025, global production of Motherwort Granules reached 61 million boxes, with an estimated average selling price of $1.90 per box. Motherwort Granules are an oral proprietary Chinese medicine in granular form, primarily composed of motherwort; they are produced through processes including water extraction, concentration, granulation, drying, and packaging. Domestically, they are typically regulated as OTC gynecological medications for regulating menstruation. Their primary functions and indications include nourishing the blood, promoting blood circulation, and regulating the menstrual cycle; they are used for conditions such as blood deficiency, blood stasis, and irregular menstruation. The upstream supply chain includes motherwort cultivation and harvesting, processing into herbal decoction pieces, motherwort extract, excipients (sucrose, dextrin, sweeteners), packaging materials (films, paper boxes), and testing and GMP production equipment. The midstream involves extraction, concentration, granulation, drying, packaging, and quality testing. The downstream sector primarily comprises pharmacies, hospital gynecology departments, primary healthcare institutions, e-commerce pharmacies, and cross-border retail of traditional Chinese medicine. The gross profit margin ranges from approximately 25% to 40%.
