Abstracts

The global N-Butylphthalimide market size is expected to reach $ 45.00 million by 2032, rising at a market growth of 2.8% CAGR during the forecast period (2026-2032).

N-Butylphthalimide is a phthalimide-based fine chemical intermediate (typically produced by reacting phthalic anhydride or phthalic acid derivatives with butylamine, upstream) that is manufactured and purified by specialty chemical producers (midstream) and then used downstream mainly as an organic synthesis building block for pharmaceuticals, agrochemicals, dyes/pigments, and other functional materials where phthalimide structures serve as protected nitrogen or heterocycle-precursor motifs.

In 2025, global N-Butylphthalimide production reached approximately 837 MT, with an average global market price of around US$ 42.8 per kg. The global single-line production capacity ranges from 100 to 150 MT per year. The industry's gross profit margin is approximately 20%-25%.
