Abstracts

Neon is a rare atmospheric gas which is odorless, colorless, tasteless, nontoxic, monatomic and chemically inert. Neon gas is principally shipped and used in gaseous form for excimer lasers, plasma displays, light bulbs, neon signs, and R & D laboratories. Neon is obtained from liquid air and it is mainly used in lighting.

Scope of the Report:

This report focuses on the Neon Gas in global market, especially in North America, Europe and Asia-Pacific, South America, Middle East and Africa. This report categorizes the market based on manufacturers, regions, type and application. In consumption market, the growth rate of global consumption is smooth relatively with the 1.65% of average growth rate. USA and Europe are still the mainly consumption regions due to the advanced production technology and rapid development of economy. Neon gas can be classified into three types: low-purity product, high-purity product and ultra-high purity product. High-purity product is the most widely used products. Survey results showed that 56% of the neon gas market is neon lamp, 15% is laser industry, 15% is refrigerant industry, 10% is medical field and 4% divided among other industries. With the development of economy, these industries will need more neon gas. So, neon gas has a huge market potential in the future. The cost of electricity is the largest single operating cost incurred in air separation plants. It is usually between one third and two thirds of the operating costs associated with producing neon gas.

The worldwide market for Neon Gas is expected to grow at a CAGR of roughly 4.3% over the next five years, will reach 48 million US$ in 2023, from 37 million US$ in 2017, according to a new GIR (Global Info Research) study.
