The global Nibbler Depaneling Machine market size is expected to reach $ 4377.8 million by 2029, rising at a market growth of 15.3% CAGR during the forecast period (2023-2029).

Nibbler Depaneling Machine are becoming increasingly automated, with digital control systems (such as PLC or CNC) being used to achieve greater accuracy and productivity. These systems allow precise control of cut length, speed and tool position. In order to meet the demands of high throughput, some shear depanelers have been able to achieve high cutting speeds and reduced cycle times. Some shear depanelers are designed to be multifunctional, allowing multiple cutting operations to be performed at the same time, including longitudinal, transverse, and tilt cutting. Energy efficiency and environmental concerns are becoming more important in manufacturing, so manufacturers are striving to design more energy-efficient shear slitters that consume less energy. Overall, the shear slitting machine industry is constantly evolving and innovating to meet the needs of various industrial and manufacturing sectors. These trends cover a wide range of aspects such as automation, digitalisation, versatility, energy efficiency, safety and intelligent monitoring to improve productivity, quality and sustainability.

Nibbler depaneling machines use a nibbling tool to remove material gradually along the cutting path. This method is suitable for cutting curves, irregular shapes, and PCBs with sensitive components.
