Abstracts

According to our (Global Info Research) latest study, the global Nitro Beer market size was valued at US$ million in 2025 and is forecast to a readjusted size of US$ million by 2032 with a CAGR of %during review period.

Nitro beer refers to beer that is carbonated with a mix of nitrogen and carbon dioxide, instead of just carbon dioxide alone. This process creates a beer with a smoother, creamier mouthfeel and a dense, foamy head. The nitrogen bubbles are smaller than carbon dioxide bubbles, which gives nitro beer its distinctive texture and appearance. This style of beer is often served on draft with a special nitro tap, but it can also be found in cans with a nitrogen widget to recreate the effect. Popular examples include Guinness Draught and other stouts and porters, but other styles of beer can also be served with nitrogen.
