Abstracts

The global Non-woven Geotextile market size is expected to reach $ million by 2029, rising at a market growth of % CAGR during the forecast period (2023-2029).

Non-woven geotextile is a type of geosynthetic material that is made from synthetic fibers, such as polyester or polypropylene, which are mechanically or thermally bonded together. Unlike woven geotextiles, non-woven geotextiles are manufactured by a process that does not involve weaving or knitting the fibers together. Non-woven geotextiles are commonly used in civil engineering and construction projects for various applications. They are primarily used to provide separation, filtration, drainage, and reinforcement functions in soil and rock structures. The material's properties, such as high tensile strength, permeability, and resistance to biological and chemical degradation, make it suitable for a wide range of geotechnical applications.

This report studies the global Non-woven Geotextile production, demand, key manufacturers, and key regions.
