Abstracts

Composite resin is a low-molecular-weight organic compound, which is normally used as organic matrix in the production of composite material. Composite resin is split between thermosets (mainly liquid resin) and thermoplastics (solid resin). Composite resin formulations vary depending on the process used to fabricate the part and the requirements of its end-use application.

SCOPE OF THE REPORT:

This report focuses on the Composite Resin in global market, especially in North America, Europe and Asia-Pacific, South America, Middle East and Africa. This report categorizes the market based on manufacturers, regions, type and application. The composite resin industry is fragmented. The global composite resin industry's top seven producers are estimated to account for 49.07% of industry production in 2015 with facilities located around the world. Although the industry is not concentrated These companies tend to dominate the markets in many countries by establishing production bases, meaning that they often directly control the packing and distribution of their product. The biggest global composite resin companies in the world are the Hexion, Huntsman Corporation, Polynt, Olin, Royal DSM, Reichhold and BASF etc. It is clear that a processor has three broad options for selling the final product including automotive, aerospace, windmills and building & construction etc. industries. Automotive and Windmills involve products sold at higher wholesale volumes. We tend to believe this industry now is mature, and the consumption increasing degree will show a slowly rising curve. On product prices, the slow downward trend in recent years will maintain in the future, as competition intensifies. Besides, prices gap between different brands will go narrowing gradually. Also, there will be fluctuation in gross margin.

The worldwide market for Composite Resin is expected to grow at a CAGR of roughly 4.6% over the next five years, will reach 23700 million US$ in 2023, from 18100 million US$ in 2017, according to a new GIR (Global Info Research) study.
