Abstracts

Lentinan is a beta-glucan (a type of polysaccharide) from the mushroom lentinus edodes (shiitake mushroom). It has been studied in Japan as a treatment for cancer.

SCOPE OF THE REPORT:

This report focuses on the Lentinan in global market, especially in North America, Europe and Asia-Pacific, South America, Middle East and Africa. This report categorizes the market based on manufacturers, regions, type and application. As an intravenous biological response modifier, lentinan features potent antitumor effects, remarkably prolonged life, improved life quality and mild side effects. First developed by Japan, lentinan was approved to enter China in 1988. Although the practical use has confirmed lentinan's efficacy, its market size has been limited due to its high price. After entering the 21st century, lentinan has become able to be produced domestically at a relatively low price. Therefore, its market size grows at an increasing rate. Now, China is the dominate producer of lentinan, the production is 84528 Kg in 2015, according for about 67.85% of the total amount, followed by Japan, with the production market share of 15.72%. China also has the highest production growth rate of 6.00% from 2011 to 2015. Even though a huge space for growth in the Chinese market exists, the quality and technology should further improve.

The worldwide market for Lentinan is expected to grow at a CAGR of roughly 3.7% over the next five years, will reach 11 million US$ in 2023, from 9 million US$ in 2017, according to a new GIR (Global Info Research) study.
