According to our (Global Info Research) latest study, the global Ordinary Portland Cement (OPC) market size was valued at USD million in 2023 and is forecast to a readjusted size of USD million by 2030 with a CAGR of % during review period.

Portland cement is the most common type of cement in general use around the world as a basic ingredient of concrete, mortar, stucco, and non-specialty grout. It was developed from other types of hydraulic lime in England in the mid 19th century, and usually originates from limestone. It is a fine powder, produced by heating limestone and clay minerals in a kiln to form clinker, grinding the clinker, and adding 2 to 3 percent of gypsum. Several types of Portland cement are available. The most common, called ordinary Portland cement (OPC), is grey in colour, but white Portland cement is also available. Its name is derived from its similarity to Portland stone which was quarried on the Isle of Portland in Dorset, England.

According to the Japan Cement Association, Japan's cement industry emitted about 40 million tons of carbon dioxide in 2020. And the cement industry became the fourth largest source of carbon dioxide emissions in the industrial sector after electricity, steel and chemicals. 60% of the cement industry's carbon emissions come from process emissions, 35% from combustion emissions and 5% from indirect emissions from electricity. According to our "Building Materials Research Institute", the global clinker capacity in 2022 was about 3.55 billion tons, and the global cement production was about 4.0 billion tons. According to the National Bureau of Statistics, China's cumulative cement output reached 2.118 billion tons in 2022.
