Paper cup sleeve, also known as cup holder, is a paper sleeve wrapped around the outside of a paper cup, used to protect hands from heat and water droplets, and to provide better grip and anti-slip function to the cup.

It is usually made of recyclable materials, such as biodegradable paper and cornstarch, with the advantages of environmental protection and sustainable development. In some countries, the use of paper cup sleeves has become a common practice in places such as beverage shops and coffee houses.

The use of paper cup sleeves can reduce consumers' demand for plastic cup sleeves, thereby reducing environmental pollution and waste.
