The global Paper Pleated Filter Cartridge market size is expected to reach $ million by 2029, rising at a market growth of % CAGR during the forecast period (2023-2029).

Paper pleated filter cartridge is a type of filter element used for filtration purposes in various industries. It is constructed using a pleated design where filter media made of paper is folded in a zigzag pattern to increase the surface area available for filtration. The filter media is typically made of cellulose or synthetic fibers and is enclosed within a support structure made of metal or plastic.

The paper pleated filter cartridge is designed to effectively remove contaminants, such as sediment, dirt, debris, and fine particles, from liquids or gases. The pleated design allows for a greater filtration area, enhancing the efficiency and capacity of the cartridge. It provides high flow rates, low pressure drop, and extended service life.

This type of filter cartridge is commonly used in applications such as water treatment, chemicals, pharmaceuticals, food and beverage, and industrial processes. It is available in various sizes and micron ratings to meet different filtration requirements.
