Abstracts

The global Pet Accessories for Travel market size is expected to reach $ 8474 million by 2032, rising at a market growth of 6.0% CAGR during the forecast period (2026-2032).

Pet travel products refer to durable or semi-durable products designed to support the safe carrying, transportation, restraint, mobility and basic travel-related care of dogs, cats and selected small companion animals during car travel, air travel, public transit, outdoor activities, veterinary visits and temporary relocation. The scope of this study focuses on products built around the “pet mobility with owner” scenario, including hard-sided pet carriers, airline-compliant crates, soft-sided carriers, pet backpacks, rolling pet carriers, pet strollers, dog car seats, vehicle restraints, car barriers, seat protectors, pet ramps, foldable steps, collapsible travel bowls and portable water bottles. Core product design parameters include load capacity, ventilation, structural strength, foldability, shock absorption, airline or vehicle compatibility, pet comfort and owner convenience. Higher-end product routes increasingly incorporate rotomolded shells, crash-tested vehicle restraint systems, smart ventilation, LED lighting, detachable stroller-carrier systems, lightweight materials and recyclable plastics. Demand is mainly driven by routine veterinary visits, urban mobility, weekend trips, road travel, airline transport, senior-pet mobility needs and emergency evacuation use cases.

Based on our research, pet travel products should not be treated as a narrow “pet bag” category. They represent a multi-scenario mobility product segment shaped by pet humanization, road and air travel practices, urban lifestyles and rising pet safety awareness. The core function of the category is to help owners move pets safely and comfortably outside the home, covering carrying, containment, restraint, mobility assistance and basic travel feeding or hydration. For this reason, the study adopts a medium-narrow scope, focusing on hard-sided carriers, airline-compliant crates, soft-sided carriers, rolling carriers, pet backpacks, pet strollers, car seats, vehicle restraints, ramps, steps and travel bowls. Compared with ordinary pet supplies, this segment has higher exposure to safety expectations, transport rules, load-bearing design, ventilation, structural durability and user convenience. The strongest professionalization is visible in airline carriers, crash-tested vehicle products and premium strollers.

Demand growth is driven more by changes in pet-owner behavior than by pet population growth alone. More frequent veterinary visits, weekend travel, car-based leisure trips, senior-pet care, public transit use, apartment living and pet-friendly travel habits all increase the need for specialized travel products. North America and Europe remain the largest value pools because of their large pet-owning household base, developed automotive travel culture and mature pet retail channels. Japan and South Korea show higher penetration in compact strollers, carriers and design-led products for small pets. China is still developing in per-household spending, but smart cat carriers, rolling pet boxes, cross-border OEM orders and domestic e-commerce brands are expanding rapidly. The industry's growth is therefore best understood as a combination of basic carrier penetration, vehicle safety upgrades, premium stroller adoption and smart carrier innovation.

Product evolution is moving from generic low-cost carriers toward scenario-specific and safety-oriented solutions. Hard-sided carriers are increasingly differentiated by structural strength, lock design, ventilation, cleaning convenience and airline compatibility. Soft carriers compete on weight, under-seat fit, breathable mesh, interior comfort and airline compliance. Vehicle products are moving toward better anchoring, crash-test claims, back-seat compatibility and owner education. Pet strollers are moving toward better suspension, lower center of gravity, modular detachable cabins and compact folding systems. Smart products remain a small but visible segment, with built-in ventilation, lighting and power-bank-supported airflow. In the medium term, the companies that can combine product engineering, reliable sourcing, compliance narratives, brand trust and channel execution are likely to outperform low-end commodity suppliers.
