Pet ramps and stairs are both designed to help pets reach higher surfaces, such as a bed or a couch, without having to jump or strain themselves. Pet ramp is a sloped surface that pets can walk up to reach higher surfaces. Ramps are often a good option for older pets, pets with joint problems or arthritis, or pets who are too small to jump up onto higher surfaces. Pet stairs are a set of individual steps that lead up to a higher surface. Pet stairs are often designed with smaller pets in mind, such as cats or smaller dogs, as they may not need as much help reaching higher surfaces.
