According to our (Global Info Research) latest study, the global Pet Waste Cleaning Services market size was valued at US$ 623 million in 2025 and is forecast to a readjusted size of US$ 819 million by 2032 with a CAGR of 4.0% during review period.

Pet waste cleaning services refer to services provided by professional service organizations or individual practitioners to pet owners, offering regular or on-demand home cleaning of pet excrement. These services primarily cover the collection, harmless treatment, and sanitation maintenance of feces in yards, apartment common areas, and community green spaces. These services typically combine basic cleaning, disinfection, deodorization, and standardized waste disposal, using standardized processes and tools to improve environmental hygiene and reduce the daily burden on pet owners. In some areas, they also need to comply with urban management and environmental regulations, making them a niche service within the pet service industry.

With the continued growth of the global pet population and the deepening trend of 'pets becoming family members,' the demand for pet-related services is constantly becoming more segmented and upgraded. Pet waste cleaning services are gradually shifting from a niche demand to a regular service. On the one hand, accelerated urbanization and increased residential density have led to stricter public health and community environmental management, driving up demand for these services. On the other hand, younger pet owners have higher requirements for convenience and quality of life, and are more willing to pay for time-saving services. Furthermore, stricter regulations on pet waste management have also contributed to the development of professional services. In the future, this industry is expected to integrate with smart hardware, community service platforms and comprehensive pet service systems, and develop towards standardization, chain operation and platformization. However, the overall market is still highly fragmented and regionally focused.
