A phosphate is chemical derivative of phosphoric acid. The phosphate ion is an inorganic chemical, the conjugate base that can form many different salts. In organic chemistry, a phosphate, or organophosphate, is an ester of phosphoric acid. Of the various phosphoric acids and phosphates, organic phosphates are important in biochemistry and biogeochemistry (and, consequently, in ecology), and inorganic phosphates are mined to obtain phosphorus for use in agriculture and industry. At elevated temperatures in the solid state, phosphates can condense to form pyrophosphates.

Scope of the Report:

This report focuses on the Phosphate in global market, especially in North America, Europe and Asia-Pacific, South America, Middle East and Africa. This report categorizes the market based on manufacturers, regions, type and application. The fertilizers application is the highest, as the need for higher agricultural production on the limited available arable land is driving the consumption of fertilizers. However, the foods & beverages application is expected to grow at the highest CAGR during forecast period mainly due to the increasing consumption of packaged food. Currently, the Asia-Pacific region is the largest market for phosphate. The increasing population coupled with the increased demand for nutritious food in the region is expected to drive the increasing demand for phosphate. South America is projected to be the second-fastest growing market from 2016 to 2021. This growth is attributed to the rapidly growing agricultural sector in the region. The worldwide market for Phosphate is expected to grow at a CAGR of roughly xx% over the next five years, will reach xx million US$ in 2023, from xx million US$ in 2017, according to a new GIR (Global Info Research) study.
