Abstracts

Polymer stabilizers are chemicals that are used as additives to manufacture plastic products. They are used directly or in combinations with other chemicals to prevent oxidation, uncontrolled recombination, chain scission, and crosslinking reactions.

Scope of the Report:

This report focuses on the Polymer Stabilizer in global market, especially in North America, Europe and Asia-Pacific, South America, Middle East and Africa. This report categorizes the market based on manufacturers, regions, type and application.

The packaging end-use industry is expected to grow at the highest CAGR in terms of value, during the forecast period due to increasing construction activities, increased demand for automobiles, and rising trade. Growing populations, and high disposable incomes are expected to lead to high demand for convenience and ready-to-eat packaged products during the forecast period. This is due to the rising demand for eco-friendly and UV and heat resistant coating components to protect the packaging material and the products stored in that packaged material from degradation.

The Asia-Pacific region is projected to be the fastest-growing market in terms of value, during the forecast period because of the rapidly growing automotive, and building & construction industry, in countries such as Japan, India, and South Korea. Increasing infrastructural developments are primarily responsible for the high demand for polymer stabilizers. Increasing construction activities are expected to lead to an increase in the use of pipes, conduits, fittings, decking, and roofing during the same period, thereby increasing the demand for the polymer stabilizer used in these products. China is the largest automobile manufacturer in the Asia-Pacific region and is among the leaders in the global automotive market.

The worldwide market for Polymer Stabilizer is expected to grow at a CAGR of roughly xx% over the next five years, will reach xx million US$ in 2023, from xx million US$ in 2017, according to a new GIR (Global Info Research) study.
