Abstracts

According to our (Global Info Research) latest study, the global Pre-baked Goods market size was valued at US$ million in 2025 and is forecast to a readjusted size of US$ million by 2032 with a CAGR of %during review period.

With the various bonus advantages of pre-prepared dishes, fertile soil has been laid for the rapid development of pre-prepared baking. Tmall's sales data in the past three years show that pre-prepared baking has experienced explosive growth, among which the growth rate of pre-prepared baking is 3.6 times that of baking raw materials and 6.8 times that of finished baking. From the category point of view, baked goods can be divided into two categories: freshly made baking and pre-packaged baking. Pre-packaged baking, also known as pre-prepared baking, is mainly produced by central factories in the form of pre-packaged food, and is distributed by logistics to supermarkets, convenience stores and other channels for sales. Consumers only need to tear open the package and follow simple steps to enjoy the finished product within a few minutes.
