Abstracts

According to our (Global Info Research) latest study, the global Product Halal Certification Services market size was valued at US$ 583 million in 2025 and is forecast to a readjusted size of US$ 990 million by 2032 with a CAGR of 7.8% during review period.

Product Halal certification services are professional services provided by qualified certification bodies. These bodies audit the raw material sources, production processes, processing equipment, packaging materials, storage and transportation methods, and supply chain segregation measures for products—such as food, beverages, ingredients, cosmetics, personal care items, pharmaceuticals, health supplements, chemicals, and other consumer goods—against Islamic Sharia law and relevant Halal standards, issuing Halal certification upon compliance. The service typically encompasses document review, verification of formulations and ingredients, on-site production audits, laboratory testing, follow-up reviews of corrective actions, certificate issuance, annual surveillance, and renewal management; its objective is to confirm that products remain free from prohibited ingredients and cross-contamination throughout production and distribution, while meeting the religious compliance and market access requirements of target markets.

The growth of the Halal product certification service market is primarily driven by factors such as the expanding Muslim consumer base, increased cross-border trade in Halal products, stricter market access requirements in key importing regions, and heightened consumer focus on ingredient transparency and product traceability. To enter markets in Southeast Asia, the Middle East, and other Muslim-majority regions, companies across the food, cosmetics, pharmaceutical, and consumer goods sectors require ongoing certification services—including initial certification, scope expansion, surveillance audits, and certificate renewals—thereby generating steady demand. Meanwhile, trends such as brand globalization, increasingly complex supply chains, the progressive refinement of Halal standards, and the adoption of electronic certificates and digital traceability systems are driving the evolution of certification services. They are shifting from simple product audits toward comprehensive compliance management that encompasses raw material suppliers, production facilities, warehousing and logistics, and the harmonization of multi-country regulations.
