Abstracts

The global PSH Lifting and Traversing Garage market size is expected to reach $ million by 2030, rising at a market growth of % CAGR during the forecast period (2024-2030).

With the increasingly prominent problem of urban parking difficulties, local governments have successively issued policies to encourage innovative parking technology and alleviate parking difficulties, providing powerful policy support for the development of PSH Lifting and Traversing Garage. At the same time, with the continuous increase of car ownership, the traditional flat parking method has been unable to meet the parking demand, and PSH Lifting and Traversing Garage has the advantages of three-dimensional parking, can provide higher parking density and less parking space, so it has a broad market space. In addition, with the continuous progress of technology, the manufacturing process, safety performance, service life and other aspects of PSH Lifting and Traversing Garage have been continuously improved, providing technical support for the development of the industry. In general, the development prospects of the PSH Lifting and Traversing Garage industry are more optimistic.

PSH Lifting and Traversing Garage is an intelligent car Parking System, its full name is "Puzzle Parking System with Lifting and Transferring". It is a mechanized car parking system, through the way of lifting and transverse movement, to achieve multi-level, multi-row parking, the car vertical lift and lateral movement, in order to achieve more parking spaces in a limited space. A PSH Lift and move garage usually consists of one or more parking levels, each with multiple parking spaces. After the vehicle enters the garage, the vehicle is lifted to the appropriate position through the electric lifting device, and then the vehicle is moved to the appropriate parking space through the transverse movement device. When the vehicle needs to be removed, the lift and traverse device will move the vehicle back to the pickup area for the owner to remove. Such garage systems typically use automated control systems that can be operated by remote control or self-service terminals, enabling a fast and efficient parking and pickup process. It can significantly save parking space, improve parking efficiency, reduce parking congestion problems, especially suitable for areas in the city where parking spaces are tight.
