Abstracts

The global Quality Management System Certification Service market size is expected to reach $ 24248 million by 2032, rising at a market growth of 6.1% CAGR during the forecast period (2026-2032).

Quality management system certification services are independent activities conducted by authoritative third-party organizations to systematically audit and evaluate an organization's quality management system based on international standards such as ISO 9001. Through document review, on-site assessment, and other methods, the system verifies whether it meets standard requirements, aiming to demonstrate the organization's ability to consistently provide qualified products and services. Upon successful certification, a certificate is issued, helping organizations improve management standardization, enhance customer trust, and provide internationally recognized qualification support for market access.

With the integration of global supply chains and consumption upgrades, enterprises' demand for quality management is deepening, and the certification service market continues to expand. Digital transformation is driving the application of new technologies such as remote auditing and blockchain traceability, improving certification efficiency and credibility. Under the trend of sustainable development, comprehensive certification integrating quality, environmental, and safety systems is becoming a new direction. The growing certification demand from emerging industries and SMEs, along with international standard mutual recognition, will further expand service boundaries, leading the industry towards specialization and refinement.
