Abstracts

According to our (Global Info Research) latest study, the global Resorbable Collagen Membranes (RCM) market size was valued at US$ million in 2025 and is forecast to a readjusted size of US$ million by 2032 with a CAGR of %during review period.

Resorbable Collagen Membranes (RCMs) are biodegradable barriers used primarily in dental and orthopedic applications to support tissue regeneration. These membranes are made from natural collagen, which is a major protein component of connective tissues. In dental procedures, such as guided bone regeneration (GBR) and guided tissue regeneration (GTR), RCMs are used to protect bone grafts and promote the growth of new bone and soft tissues by preventing the invasion of surrounding non-desirable cells into the healing site. Over time, the collagen membrane is gradually resorbed by the body, eliminating the need for a second surgical procedure to remove it. RCMs offer several advantages, including biocompatibility, ease of handling, and the ability to integrate with the body's natural healing processes. Their use is expanding in medical fields due to their effectiveness in enhancing the outcomes of regenerative procedures.
