The global Rotary Drum Washer market size is expected to reach $ 47 million by 2029, rising at a market growth of 3.1% CAGR during the forecast period (2023-2029).

Global 5 largest manufacturers of rotary drum washer are Jenfab, Cincinnati Industrial, Machinery, Proceco, Almco and Cleaning Technologies Group, LLC, which make up over 40%. Among them, Jenfab dominates with a market share over 15%. Top players headquarter in Europe, North America and China.

Asia-Pacific is the largest geographic segment, holding a share about 40%, followed by North America and Europe.

There are three types of rotary drum washer, including small size washer, medium size washer and large size washer. The leading type is medium size, with a market share over 40%.

In terms of application, rotary drum washers are mainly used in aerospace and metal forming, automotive industry and military industry. Automotive industry is the largest segment, accounting for over 40%.

Rotary drum washers work well for cleaning high-volume parts, like stampings, fasteners and ammunition casings. A drum is like a rotating tub. It moves during the cleaning cycle to agitate the parts or carry them to the next station. During its cycle, a washing machine's inner drum moves around, agitating the water, detergent and laundry. At a basic level, industrial-grade drum washers work the same way to clean with an aqueous solution.

Rotary drum washers can accomplish washing, rinsing, sealing, passivating and drying stages—all while keeping solutions separate. With a rotary drum washer, parts are fed into a rotating drum continuously or in batches. This drum looks like a long, horizontal cylinder. The drum's internal helix causes parts to move through it as it rotates. During washing and rinsing stages, parts are gently tumbled to expose all surfaces and edges to the aqueous solution.

Rotary drum washers use both pressurized spray and immersion soaking for a powerful clean. Combining the two techniques removes grime from both the exterior and interior of parts. The spray washes oils, dust and debris from the exterior, and immersing parts into the solution flushes out any hollow areas or blind holes.
