A screening bucket is a specialized attachment used in construction, landscaping, and waste management industries for separating and screening materials on-site. It is typically mounted on an excavator, backhoe loader, or wheel loader.

The rotary screening bucket consists of a rotating drum or mesh screen with specifically sized holes, allowing smaller materials to pass through while retaining larger particles. The rotation of the drum is powered by hydraulic motors or an auxiliary power source, providing continuous and efficient screening. The primary purpose of a rotary screening bucket is to sort and segregate various materials, such as soil, gravel, sand, demolition debris, biomass, and compost. It helps remove unwanted materials, such as rocks, roots, and larger waste, providing a consistent and fine end product. The rotary screening bucket helps streamline the material screening process on-site, reducing the need for separate machinery or manual labor. It saves time and labor costs by eliminating the need for additional material handling and transportation.

The Global Info Research report includes an overview of the development of the Rotary Screening Bucket industry chain, the market status of Loaders (
