A seamless table tennis ball is a type of ball that is manufactured from a single, continuous piece of material, typically plastic, without any visible seams or joints. This construction provides superior durability, consistency, and uniformity in bounce and performance compared to seamed balls. Seamless balls are often preferred for high-level competitive play, as they offer a more reliable and predictable trajectory. The lack of a seam eliminates the risk of the ball splitting or losing shape over time, making it more resilient during prolonged use. Seamless table tennis balls are commonly used in professional tournaments and ITTF-sanctioned events.
