Abstracts

The global Spherical Graphite market size is expected to reach $ 471.5 million by 2029, rising at a market growth of 9.3% CAGR during the forecast period (2023-2029).

Spherical Graphite is the key material for the production of anodes for Li-ion batteries used in energy storage for EV and grid applications, which is currently the main application for our graphene products. Rising demand for Li-ion batteries, from the growing number of end-users in sectors such as transportation, energy, and others that require battery-grade graphite, is driving demand for spherical graphite. A major driving force of growth is from the market for EV. Spherical graphite is made of high-quality high-carbon natural flake graphite as raw material, and the graphite surface is modified by advanced processing technology to produce graphite products with different fineness and shape like oval spheres. In terms of product types, the category of copper purity > 99.95% is the first segment of the spherical graphite market, accounting for 93.25%. It is the most widely used in the field of electric vehicle batteries, accounting for 66.44%. Global top six manufacturers of Spherical Graphite occupied for a share nearly 45 percent, key players are BTR New Material Group, Qingdao Guangxing Electronic Materials, Qingdao GR-Taida Carbon, Zhanjiang Juxin New Energy, and Graphex Group, Qingdao Xintaihe Energy Materials? etc.
