Abstracts

A steak is a meat generally sliced across the muscle fibers, potentially including a bone. Exceptions, in which the meat is sliced parallel to the fibers, include the skirt steak cut from the plate, the flank steak cut from the abdominal muscles, and the Silverfinger steak cut from the loin and includes three rib bones. In a larger sense, there are also fish steaks, ground meat steaks, pork steak and many more varieties of steak.

Scope of the Report:

This report focuses on the Steaks in global market, especially in North America, Europe and Asia-Pacific, South America, Middle East and Africa. This report categorizes the market based on manufacturers, regions, type and application.

Harvey Beef recently introduced its new range of steak cuts and marinated products in the Australian market. These products are distributed through Coles stores and the company claims that the product contains 100% West Australian Beef. Players are increasingly investing in product innovation and new product development and this is expected to increase during the forecast period. Since new product launches will assist players in increasing their revenues and also in setting up a stronger market position, more market players will increasingly focus on new launching new products.

The Americas is expected to be the major revenue contributor to the steaks market throughout the forecast period. The rising consumer demand for protein-rich foods and the focus of the market players to launch of new products, will be major factors driving the market's growth prospects in this region.
