Abstracts

The global Strawberry Extract market size is expected to reach $ million by 2029, rising at a market growth of % CAGR during the forecast period (2023-2029).

The industry trend for strawberry extract has shown consistent growth due to several factors. There is a rising demand for natural and fruit-derived flavorings as consumers seek healthier and more authentic food and beverage options. Strawberry extract aligns with this trend as it provides a natural and concentrated source of strawberry flavor. Additionally, the use of strawberry extract in the food industry allows for consistent flavor profiles and cost-effective production. As consumers continue to favor clean-label and natural ingredients, the market for strawberry extract is expected to expand further, especially in the context of healthier and more natural product formulations.

Strawberry extract is a concentrated liquid or powder derived from strawberries, a popular fruit known for its sweet and fruity flavor. This extract is typically produced by macerating or processing ripe strawberries to capture their natural essence and flavor compounds. It is often used in various food and beverage applications to impart the distinct taste and aroma of fresh strawberries, without the moisture content found in whole fruits. Strawberry extract is a versatile ingredient, commonly utilized in the production of jams, jellies, desserts, beverages, and flavoring for confectionery and bakery products, enhancing their strawberry flavor profile.
