Abstracts

This report studies the thaumatococcus market, thaumatococcus is a low-calorie sweetener and flavour modifier. The protein is often used primarily for its flavour-modifying properties and not exclusively as a sweetener.

The thaumatococcos were first found as a mixture of proteins isolated from the katemfe fruit (Thaumatococcus daniellii Bennett) of West Africa. Some proteins in the thaumatococcus family of sweeteners are roughly 2000 times more potent than sugar. Although very sweet, thaumatococcus's taste is markedly different from sugar. The sweetness of thaumatococcus builds very slowly. Perception lasts a long time, leaving a liquorice-like aftertaste at high usage levels. Thaumatococcus is highly water-soluble, stable to heating, and stable under acidic conditions.

Scope of the Report:

This report focuses on the Thaumatococcus in global market, especially in North America, Europe and Asia-Pacific, South America, Middle East and Africa. This report categorizes the market based on manufacturers, regions, type and application. Firstly, as being the most intense natural sweetener thaumatococcus has the extraordinary property of enhancing the taste of lower quantities of salt and sugar in food products - so there is no loss of tastiness. Due to its characteristics, it is popular in the developed districts such as USA, Europe and Oceania. Secondly, compared to synthetic sweeteners which have many side effects to humans' health, sweeteners extracted from nature plants is beneficial to humans and is considered to replace the synthetic sweeteners. So thaumatococcus extracted from thaumatococcus daniellii bennett is becoming popular in the world. The production increases to 169.07 MT in 2016 from 138.47 MT in 2012.

Thirdly, Europe is the main manufacturing region, much larger than other districts. In 2016, the production is 137.42 MT, which take 81.28% of the global production. USA and Oceania are the other two main manufacturing districts.

The worldwide market for Thaumatin is expected to grow at a CAGR of roughly 4.5% over the next five years, will reach 220 million US$ in 2023, from 170 million US$ in 2017, according to a new GIR (Global Info Research) study.
