Abstracts

The global Wallpaper market size is expected to reach $ 8189 million by 2032, rising at a market growth of 3.4% CAGR during the forecast period (2026-2032).

Wallpaper is an interior wall covering material used for the decoration and protection of residential, commercial, and public building interiors. It is available in a wide range of colors, patterns, materials, and surface finishes, and is widely used in interior decoration due to its decorative versatility, ease of installation, cost effectiveness, and ability to meet diverse aesthetic and functional requirements. For statistical consistency, one roll is converted into 5.3 square meters based on a common residential wallpaper roll size of approximately 0.53 m ? 10 m. In 2025, global wallpaper production reached 1,490.19 million rolls, based on an average ex-factory price of USD 4.17 per roll across global manufacturers.

The wallpaper market is mainly driven by the continued release of demand from residential renovation, existing home refurbishment, and the upgrading of hotels, offices, and commercial spaces. At the same time, rising consumer requirements for aesthetics, personalization, and environmental performance are driving wallpaper to evolve from a traditional basic wall material into a more design-oriented and functional decorative material. With the increasing adoption of low-VOC products, eco-friendly substrates, easy-installation solutions, and fast-decoration demand, wallpaper is being used more widely in home decoration, light refurbishment, and partial renovation scenarios.

In terms of development trends, the wallpaper industry is moving toward greener, more personalized, and more flexible production. Among these trends, digitally printed wallpaper is growing faster, mainly benefiting from rising demand for small-batch customization, faster pattern updates, stronger personalized expression, and the wider adoption of short-lead-time production models. Going forward, the market is expected to evolve from traditional standardized products toward the parallel development of digitally printed wallpaper, mural-style designs, natural textures, premium surface effects, and multi-scenario applications, while online channels, integrated decoration channels, and project channels will continue to gain importance.
