The global Waterproof Breather Roofing and Wall Membranes market size is expected to reach $ million by 2030, rising at a market growth of % CAGR during the forecast period (2024-2030).

Waterproof Breather Roofing and Wall Membranes are a multi-functional building material made of polymer composite materials with waterproof, breathable and other properties. They are a membrane-like material often used on the roofs and walls of buildings to protect them from moisture and moisture. The main feature of this material is that it can be waterproof and breathable at the same time, avoiding some problems existing in other waterproof materials, such as local water leakage and moisture accumulation. Compared with traditional waterproof materials, Waterproof Breather Roofing and Wall Membranes are more durable and stable, and will not cause problems such as cracking or deformation due to environmental changes such as temperature and humidity.

Waterproof Breather Roofing and Wall Membranes are widely used in various construction fields, including residential, commercial, public facilities, etc. Especially in high-performance building design, such as passive houses, low-energy buildings, etc., this material is widely used to improve the comfort and energy-saving effects of buildings.
