Image design consulting is a professional service that systematically plans and optimizes how a brand or individual presents themselves to the outside world. Its core lies in helping clients establish a clear, consistent, and recognizable image system through positioning analysis and the development of visual and communication strategies. For businesses, image design consulting typically covers brand positioning, visual identity systems (such as logos, colors, and layouts), communication styles, and application guidelines; for individuals, it focuses on professional image, public expression, and contextual presentation. Its goal is not simply to beautify a single aspect, but to align the image with strategy, audience perception, and communication channels to improve long-term cognitive efficiency and trust.
