Abstracts

According to our (Global Info Research) latest study, the global PSA (Pressure Sensitive Adhesive) Cover Tape market size was valued at US$ million in 2024 and is forecast to a readjusted size of USD million by 2031 with a CAGR of %during review period.

Pressure sensitive adhesives cover tapes require different processing and handling than heat activated cover tapes and are generally considered to be easier to seal than their heat activated counterparts. The PSA adhesive is a synthetic adhesive formulated to remain tacky over a wide range of temperatures, including room temperature. Hence, PSA cover tapes require no heat to seal them to the carrier. To prevent components from sticking to the adhesive, a liner film is added to cover the adhesive in the center portion of the cover tape. PSA cover tapes are slightly more complex in their cons.

Pressure Sensitive Adhesive (PSA) cover tape is a specialized material commonly used for packaging and protecting electronic components. This tape is characterized by its high tackiness, adhering upon the application of slight pressure without the need for additional heat or chemical treatment. Typically composed of an elastic base material and a pressure-sensitive adhesive, PSA cover tape effectively seals packaging materials and guards against potential damage from dust, moisture, and other external factors. PSA cover tape plays a crucial role in the electronic packaging process, enhancing packaging efficiency and ensuring the reliability and stability of components.
