Cover tape refers to a strip product used in the field of electronic packaging and used in conjunction with a carrier tape. The cover tape is usually based on a polyester or polypropylene film, and is compounded or coated with different functional layers (antistatic layer, adhesive layer, etc.), and can be sealed on the surface of the carrier tape under external force or heating to Form A closed space protects the electronic components in the carrier tape. The top cover tape acts even more important than the carrier tape to the overall sealing performance, especially the PBF (Peel Back Force) is a critical issue in many applications of modern electronics industry.

Top cover tape is a specialized material used in semiconductor packaging, typically applied to encapsulate and protect the top layer of chips. This tape-like material is commonly made from reliable polymers, offering strong adhesion and sealing properties that effectively encapsulate the chips, shielding them from potential damage caused by dust, moisture, and other external factors. The top cover tape plays a crucial role in the packaging process, ensuring chip stability and reliability while also contributing to improved packaging efficiency and production quality.
