Tough epoxy structural adhesive is a high-performance adhesive material designed for applications requiring high strength and toughness. It is widely used in aerospace, automotive manufacturing, building reinforcement and the electronics industry. This adhesive combines the excellent mechanical strength of epoxy resin with the flexibility brought by special modified ingredients, and can provide reliable bonding performance when subjected to impact, vibration and other dynamic loads. It can not only form a strong connection between a variety of substrates such as metals, composites, plastics and concrete, but also effectively absorb and disperse stress, reducing internal stress concentration caused by differences in thermal expansion coefficients.
